

ABSTRACT

Antimicrobial sheets for prevention, environmental and human protection. Preferably the sheets are formed into linear, square and rectangular sheets from a singular form to a multi-layered configuration that may be exposed to environmental natural elements occasionally and or permanently which may interact with human contact.